President Golt's Team No Match for the Raw-Boned Cowboys.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 11 .- Hard and consecutive hitting, which they kept up from the first inning to the ninth, tells the story of the Blues' victory over Indianapolis to-day. Nothing but their tremendons hitting saved the game for the Blues, because they played ragged ball in the field. The Hoosiers also hit Hughey often, but they were not as lucky with their hits as the Blues were. It was a game in which the heavy and continuous batting was the only redeeming feature. Manning led the procession with a safe bit every time he went to the bat. Hughey got in two singles and a triple, and Lytle whacked the sphere for a single, triple and a homerun. For the Hoosiers, Letcher led with the stick with two singles and a double. "Kid" Madden got in a single and triple. In the field the work of the Harrisonians was very "old gold," Berger and Letcher being especially off their work. The Blues opened up on Madden viciously, Manning and Sunday hitting safe, after which a sacrifice by Payne and a double by Carney enabled both of them to cross the plate. In their half of the inning the Hoosiers also got a pair of scores. A two-bagger by Letcher, Lytle's muff of Genins's long drive to center and a single by "Hick" Carpenter doing the work. For the Blues in the second Hughey hit to right for three bases, and Manning's single brought him in. In the third a fumble by Berger, a must by Letcher and singles by Lytle, Hughey and Manning sent three more runs over the plate. The Hoosiers got a batting streak in the fourth and piled up three runs. A base on balls to Berger, a fumble by Alberts of Quinn's hit a triple by Madden and a single by Letcher, was the size of the exnitement. In the sixth they took the lead by getting three more runs on singles by Madden and Letcher and Sunday's error on Genins's grounder, a base on balls to O'Brien and a single by Berger. This gave the Hoosiers a lead of two runs, but the Blues whipped it out in the seventh, when they scored three on a gift to Alberts and a triple by Lytle, with singles by Hughey and Manning. They made victory certain in the eighth with three runs on a

LABOR RIOT AT TOWANDA

One Pel'ca Officer Shot, in the Abdomen and Another in the Knee Joint

Towanda, N. Y., June 11.-About 10 o'clock this morning three hundred union men marched down the river to A. West & Son's Lumber Company and began throwing clubs and stones. The entire police of eight men had been stationed along the docks and yards. They speedily arrived on the scene and drew their guns and fired into the air with the hope of quelling the riot. The union men also had "shootingirons" and returned the fire with serious results. Officer John Martin was shot through the knee joint and officer Frank Kinsley through the abdomen. The police fled for their lives. Sheriff Ensign, of Lockport, then was called upon for assistance, and he came up on the train, accompanied by several deputies. It was deemed best to get the militia out, but Captain Charles Summers, of the Twenty-fifth Separate Company. could do nothing until communication was had with General Doyle. As the result of a conference between the chief of police, the sheriff, Captain Sommers, and the lumbermen, it was decided to attempt no arrests until every precaution had been made for a successful effort. It is thought the bullet which struck Kinsley was intended for | the Empress, on the other hand, hails his Woods. Being foreman of the yards, it is believed he was singled out by the crowd. He had a revolver, and was shooting when stone struck him in the head, felling him to the ground. Kinsley was close by his side when shot. Woods was pretty badly cut and bruised about the face and head, and was taken to his home. After the policemen were driven away short work was made in hustling out the men engaged in work. The union men then visited the island, where men were at work on barges at the yards of Smith, Fasset & Co's., Cowper & Gregory's, and the Robinson Bros.' Lumber Company. Several men here were quite badly used up by the rikers. Fassett & Bellinger's dock at the ferry was then visited, and the men driven

Two cars going down hill collided, and asa result an unknown boy lies at the point of death, a woman passenger has both legs broken, a motorman and conductor have broken limbs, and half a dozen others are injured. A ball game between Andover Exeter drew a big crowd Lawrence to Andover and the cars went out heavily loaded. The accident occurred just beyond Philhp's Hill, midway between Lawrence and Andover and near the intersection of Broadway and Union streets. The first car was in charge of motorman Geo. A. Emery, and conductor Edward Tulley, and the second in charge of motorman Wm. H. Smith and conductor J. H. Lithgow. At the base of the hill Tulley stepped off his car to let out a passenger, and the car following ran into it

Liberal Success in the Coming Elections Great I ritain Imperiled by the Division in the Irish Par y.

DIVIDED IRELAND.

Healy a Stumbling-Block in the Way of Uniting the Factions. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

LONDON, June 11 .- The absorbing question in Liberal circles is whether the Irish Nationalists will go into the general election in their present divided condition or will conclude to unite. There is a feeling among the Liberal leaders, which they do not hesitate to express, that division in the Irish ranks means defeat for the Liberal party in Great Britain. The appeal of the Ulster Protestants is making a strong impression upon the British Nonconformists, and it will be difficult to hold the Liberal party for Irish home rule unless it is shown not only that an overwhelming majority of the Irish are for home rule, but also that home rule would mean someting besides discord and strife. While the McCarthy or majority faction of the Irish Nationalists complain that the Parnellites are not willing to come to an understanding, the Parnellites answer that so long as Timothy Healey continues to abuse both the living and the dead, so long they would only be degrad-ing themselves by submitting to his dictation. Healy is, at present, the real leader of the McCarthyites. The Parnellites assert that it was Healy's venominus tongue that drove Parnell to his grave; that he spared neither Parnell nor Mrs. Parnell, nor even Mr. Parnell's sister in his brutal criticisms, and that he made himself by his venom unworthy of association with self-respecting Irishmen. The Parnellites declare that while Healy remains at the front as leader of the McCarthyites it would be asking large majority of wheels carried pneumatic | them too much to join with a party that accepts such leadership.

Certain prominent McCarthyltes, on other hand, have privately suggested to the Parnellites that they would like to get rid of Healy, but are unable to do so, but that if the Parnellites would unite with them the opposition to Healy would be strong enough to get rid of him. So far these arguments have not produced any result favorable to rennion, and there is every prospect of a three-corned fight in the coming election, with a considerable gain of seats for the Tories.

CZAR AND KAISER.

Gossip About the Meeting of the Monarchs -Effort to Placate Bismarck. [Copyright, 1892, by the New York Associated Press. Berlin, June 11 .- The meeting between the Czar and Emperor William at Kiel has been the leading topic of conversation during the week. The comments of the newspapers show that it is generally felt that there is little reason for congratulation over the result of the meeting, which had too much the appearance of the Emperor running after the Czar, while the ostentations vist of Grand Dake Constantine to Nancy at the express instructions of the Czar dispelled any idea that political importance can be attached to the Kiel meeting. The cordial character of his reception, however, cannot fail to impress the Czar with the fact that the Peoperor desires to maintain friendly relations with Russia. The Emperor's conferring the honorary rank of German Admiral on the Czar is further proof of his desire to show kindly regard for him. The title was especially created for the occasion. The only foreign royal personages holding honorary titles in the German navy are King Oscar II of Sweden, and Archduke Stephen of Austria, but they do not hold a special rank. During the breakfast at Kiel the Czar conversed freely with General Werder. This occurrence is greatly remarked as tending to confirm the reports that General Werder will be the next German minister to St. Petersburg. The Cologne Gazette affirms that the Czar. while at Kiel, declared that he would not think of supporting France if she raised any question regarding Alsace-Lorraine. Though political circles are little pleased at the failure of the Czar to visit Berlin.

Prince Bismarck decided to go, but was dissuaded from doing so by his wife and Count Herbert Bismarck, who insisted that he ought not to submit to be treated in such an off-hand manner. Finally a messenger was sent to the Emperor with the information that Prince Bismarck was unable to comply with his Majesty's request. Upon receiving this reply the Emperor proceeded on his journey. Prince Bismarck will attend the wedding of his son, Count Herbert and the Countess Marguerite Hoyes, which is to take place at the Evangelical Church at Vienna on the 21st inst. Count Herbert and his finance are much pained at the action of a set of bigoted Catholics in Vienna who have addressed a circular letter to the leading aristocracy urging them not to attend the wedding, on the ground that the ceremony is to be held in a Protestant church,

Brazilian Army Routed After a Desperate Fight with Insurgents NEW YORK, June 11 .- The Herald's Val paraiso dispatch says:

"The Herald correspondent at Montevideo, Uruguay, telegraphs that advices received in the city from the rebellious State of Matto Grosso, Brazil, announce terrific tighting in and around the capital, Cuyaba, and the utter defeat of the government soldiers sent from Rio Janeiro some time ago by land and sea to quell the uprising. The combat is said to have begun on May 7 and lasted until May 13, when the government troops fled in the utmost disorder. They are reported to have left one thousand men killed upon the battlefield, and even a larger number of wounded. All the chief officers of the government forces were killed. Cuyaba was then entered by the victorious rebels, who sacked it and assassinated all the government officials. The revolutionists say they have no desire to secede from the republic, but that they want a good Governor and officials chosen by the residents of the State, and not arbitrarily imposed upon them by the authorities at Rio Janeiro. It is stated that the Brazilian President was aware of the defeat of his troops at Cuyaba, but suppressed the

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS. of a British Martinet,

Precial to the Indianapolis Journal. LONDON, June 11 .- Considerable stir has ported appeal of the colonists of Demerars to Minister Lincoln for his mediation in their behalf. The British government has given very little attention of late years to the administration of Guiana, although involved in a dispute with Venezuela over the boundary line of that region. The colony has been ruled for the past five years by Viscount Gormanston, an Irish peer, who is said to be a good deal of a martinet, with ideas of government more akin to the Oriental than to the British. The constitution of the colony is such as to give the Governor almost absolute control, and it is of this that the colonists chiefly complain. The electoral privileges, such as they are, belong to a small privilged class which use the common people little better than seris. This discontent has been growing greater and greater until now it is said the people may take redress into their own hands unless something is done for them. The Downingstreet officials were almost paralyzed with astonishment when the news came from America that these downtrodden colonists had dared to appeal to the representative of a foreign power, and especially of the United States. Downing street could not act without an official confirmation of the report, and it is not probable that Downing street will ever receive such a confirma-No Wonder They Are Food for Cholera. LONDON, June 11 .- A dispatch from Meshed, in northeast Persia, says that all the Europeans in that city have escaped safely from the cholera, which is ravishing Meshed and the province of Khorassau, in which the city is located. Among the natives the deaths have reached 250 daily. The disease is of a most violent type. Persons seeming perfectly well are seized with the disease while passing along the streets, or attending to their and business, and in a few hours many of them are dead. No panic prevails, for the people look upon the epidemic as a visitation from God. The dead are buried in the usual manner, within the precincts of the town.

Cable Notes. Emperor William's yacht, the Meteor, was a contestant yesterday in the race of the Thames Yacht Club from the Nore to Diver. She was again beaten by the Iverna, which crossed the line seven minutes ahead of the Meteor.

The French government will ask the Chamber of Duputies to maintain, until Dec. 31, the existing petroleum duties, the diminution of which, according to the laws governing the matter, should be enforced from the 1st of October.

Important Questions to Be Settled by the IRON AND STEEL-WORKERS. Amalgamated Association. PITTSBURG, Pa., June 11.-There was no session to-day of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel-workers. The delegates participated in the reunion at Beaver. The day was pleasant and fully twenty-five thousand members, with their families, took part in the festivities. Aside from the vexatious problem-the wage question-the Amalgamated Association has a number of unusually important matters to act upon this year that have never before been brought up. The convention has completed its routine work and is now upon the important business prepared by the general officers, which embraces suggestions of such subordinate lodges as desired changes either in the constitution of the association or the scale of 1892-93. Among the most important suggestions. and for the adoption of which strong efforts will be made, are: First, to have a two years' scale; second, to withdraw from the American Federation of Labor; third. that the price of boiling be fixed, this year, at $6, instead of at $5.50 per ton, as at present, and, fourth, that Sunday work be avoided by beginning work on Monday morning instead of Sunday evening. Typos Will Legislate This Week, PHILADELPHIA, June 11.-The International Typographical Union of the United States and Canada will hold its annual session in this city, commencing on Monday next, in the auditorium of the Drexel Institute. About 225 delegates in all will attend the session. This evening a recepon was tendered the delegates at the Drexel Institute. The session of the International Union will open on Monday at 10 o'clock, when addresses of welcome will be made by Governor Pattison, Mayor Stewart and others.

SIR WALTER'S BIG WINNING

First by a Short Head in the $20,000 Eclipse Stakes at Morris Park.

Tenny Runs Third in the First Appearance This Season - Jugurtha Take the Missouri Stakes at St. Louis-Other Races.

AT MORRIS PARK. A Number of Whipping Head-and-Head

Finishes Yesterday. MORRIS PARK, June 11.-The great Eclipse stakes, worth $20,000, was run this afternoon and won by the Oneck stable's crack colt. Sir Walter, ridden in capital etyle by jockey Fred Taral. The finish was one of the best seen this spring. Sir Walter, Don Alonzo and Dr. Rice finishing only heads apart. Don Alonzo was the best colt of the three, but the spectators were treated to the astonishing spectacle of Taral outriding the veteran Isaac Murphy. The Western colt, the Reaper, ran well for three furlongs, but he was no match for the Eastern clinkers. He finished seventh. While at the post, Shelly Tuttle dropped to the track and attempted to roll on top of Garrison. He succeeded in spraining the "Snapper's" back, but not enough to necessitate the substitution of another jockey. Garrison wanted to ride Sir Walter, but as his employer, Marcus Daly, started Shelly Tuttle, the mount was given to Taral. The great Eclipse is the second $20,000 stake Sir Walter has won this spring, he having captured the great American at Gravesend. Locohatchee was made first choice in the betting on the Bowlingbrook handleap, but was defeated by St. Florian, the second choice, by a head. The day was fine and about twenty thousand people made the journey. The track was dry, but a trille dead. Tenny made his first appearance this season. The Coming Races at Sturgis, Mich. STURGIS, Mich, June 11.-The famous kite track here was never in better condition than now, and the spring meeting, to which entries close next Monday, is already an assured success. Never in the history of harness racing have so many good stables and noted drivers come together at one track and the Sturgis $50,000 meeting will long be remembered in turf history.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

How Some of the Modern Experts Have Attained Their Success. Literary Digest.

In this day women are doing quite as much as men in various trades and professions, except one. It is public speaking. Many women speak well in public, and many do not. Both classes may obtain useful hints from what Lord Dutterin has said on the subject.

What is required before one can think effectively upon his or her feet is the perfect concentration of attention upon what they have to say; but this is almost impossible to those who are new to the effort. A multitude of thoughts utterly foreign to their speech and its subject are dividing their minds, while sheer physical nervousness imparts a further element of confusion. The fear of failure and its consequences; the dazzling spectacle of so many hundred attentive faces awimming bewhisperings of the indifferent members of their audiences; the knowledge that their notes have got hopelessly mixed, combine to create a situation of mental torture which shakes the limbs, dries the mouth and twists the tongue inextricably round the teeth. Indeed, so terrible is the ordest that, as we all know, only a minority are capable of surviving it; but in the case of those who have courage to persevere, these unpleasant accidents and symptoms will eventually vanish, the train of their thoughts will gradually flow forth clearly and caimly, and the necessary words will suggest themselves with less and less difficulty and effort. But still I am inclined to believe that no good speech is ever made. unless by the most practiced of our public men, without a great deal of careful preparation. Indeed, it is almost an insult to his audience for any ordinary person to de-mand their attention unless be has well considered beforehand what he is going to say. But, of course, both the kinds and the degrees of possible preparation are very various. Some persons-and this, we know, was the practice of Demosthenes, of Cicero, and of the ancients-write out every word of their speeches from beginning to end beforehand and this practice, I imagine, has been followed by many eminent orators of our own time-by Macaulay, for instance, by the late Lord Ellenborough, and by others. Some persons only compose and write ont beforehand portions of what they intend to say, but these portions generally include the exordium and the peroration. Mr. Bright, I believe, made no secret of this being his practice, and we have Lord Brougham's own statement for the fact that he wrote out the last paragraphs of his speech in defense of Queen Caroline nine times. But I do not recommend any one who would really desire to become a good speaker to accustom himself, unless on exceptions occasions, even though he should write out his speech beforehand, to learn it by heart. Such a practice is like swimming with corks. In the first place, to most people, both the labor of such a process and the time occupied in executing it would be found excessive; and in the next, if through any lapse of memory you get into difficulties, your breakdown is sure to be instantaneous and complete. Moreover, under such conditions you would never become a debater or capable of replying to the arguments of an opponent, which is even a more useful and necessary aptitude in public life than the art of delivering a set speech. At the same time, there are occasions when it would be prudent to follow such a course.

THE ENGLISH POSTAL SERVICE, A Liberal Appropriation the Secret of Its Perfection.

The great secret of the perfection of the nglish postal service and its promptness in bandling the mails lies in the liberality of the appropriation made each year by the government for the Postoffice Department, it being tar in excess of its needs, so that the officials in charge are never in need of money to .m. ploy a sufficient number of clerks and curriers, nor is any thought ever given to whole aim of the government and the department is to serve the public and deliver the mail promptly, no matter if they use up every penny of the appropriation and have to seek more. The liberal use of money is apparent all through the English service. In the case of the carriers it manifests itself in a dozen different ways. One instance will show just how it works:

Take the case of a collector. He is never required to carry more than thirty-five pounds on any collection trip. If, while on his tour, he collects what he considers to be about thirty-five pounds weight he stops right there-it makes no difference how far he has gone over his route-calls a cab and rides back in all his majesty to the office; arrived there he calls the attention of a gentleman called the lobby officer to the jact that he has returned in a cab. This official pays the cabman. Should there be a disposition on the part of any collector to abuse this privilege the lobby officer weighs his mail, and, if found short in weight, the carrier pays the cabman him-

The collection-boxes are very large, being built right up from the street, the lower half being a sort of "dammy" box. Collections are heavy and frequent, and the collectors are obliged to bring in a ticket from each box on their route on every trip; these tickets are turned over to a supervisor, as he is called, who examines and notes them correct or otherwise in his book, so that there is no likelihood of a collector missing a box.

WOMEN HELP ON DINING CARS. An Innovation in Travel on a New England Line.

New York Evening World. The only railroad in the world on which women are regularly employed at other than maid service is the New York & New England. On the air, shore and gilt-edge lines of the New York, New Haven & Hartford divisions girls form part of every staff on the dining car. The kitchen girls assist the cook. They clean and prepare vegetables and fruits, make salads and dressing, cut bread and turn out butter prints, fill cruets, pitchers, cake baskets and sugar bowls with table supplies; pack and distribute linea and wash and dry dishes. They get $10 and work ten bours a day, seven days in a week. At first they are a little unsteady, and smash more crockery and waste more supplies in a day than they can pay for in a week, but after they get their train legs on they are invaluable. The cashier sits in the rear end of the dining-room, gives out checks, receives the cash, keeps an eye on the passengers and reports at once to the manager any evidence of discomfort or dissatisfaction, and in addition sells cigars, and withal manages to read a little, firt a little and look in the gises a great deal. Cashiers get the same wages as the kitchen girls. All these fair train hands are Bostonians, and the demands for positions far exceed the passenger list any day in the year. The Pennsylvania Company employs a colored ladies' maid on the Chicago limited trains to look after the comfort of the women and children. These
